Easter Joy (week of April 2)

The month of April began with lessons of Easter. An age appropriate approach is used when teaching all of our lessons including Jesus dying on the cross and rising on Easter Sunday. The children listened to the story titled "A Sad and Happy Day" from our Read Aloud Bible, as well as other First Easter books. During Jesus time the children discussed the reason for our Easter celebration with family and friends.

To extend the joy of Easter, the children partook in a variety of activities including an egg hunt, egg/spoon balance game, Easter sensory basket, egg sorting, a big egg painting, learned a few songs and even had time for bunny stories. Our classroom has a beautiful 3D tomb with characters and flannel story which allows the children to retell the Easter story in their own words. I hope you will continue to have conversations at home about the First Easter. I like to say we are all "planting seeds" in our little one hearts for future faith lessons.

Spring Shoes

Whenever the season of Spring decides to show up—please be aware of our shoe policy. It is best for the children to wear sturdy shoes covering their toes. It is tempting to wear cute sandals and crocs, but for safety reasons these are discouraged at Preschool. Please see the parent handbook you received in August if you have questions. Thank you.

Preschool Summer Camp

We are offering a summer camp opportunity in June. We will be having a week-long Summer Safari camp --morning only. A hard copy of the summer camp form was placed in the family files a few weeks ago. The forms are also on the school website. If you are interested please register by early May.

Night of the Arts:

Thursday, April 26th is our PreK-8th grade display of Arts and Literature. The Terrific Threes class completed a Polar Bear painting with a bath puff and read stories on polar bears. This work was completed in January during our Polar Bear Express theme. I saved the children's work and it will be on display outside of the Preschool rooms. Please stop by on Thursday evening, April 26 to see your child's art displayed in our school cafeteria—and check out the entire school for beautiful creations.

Spring Assessments and Conferences:

I have had the privilege of working 1:1 with your little one this month to go over the preschool readiness concepts that have been taught and reviewed all year long. I am looking forward to sharing your child's assessments with you at conferences on May 3rd and 4th. Carolyn Pilney will send out a notification regarding sign-ups soon.

It is amazing to me and such an incredible gift to be a part of your child's early years of learning. Both Kathy and I look forward to watching more learning and delight to take place in the weeks ahead.

Thank you for sharing your bundle of joy with our preschool staff.
